

JWU ONLINE

JWU College of Professional Studies is now JWU Online

As of April 7, 2025, Johnson & Wales University College of Professional Studies is officially known as JWU Online. The new name provides clarity for adults seeking online education programs to advance or change their careers, and that provide the flexibility to work full-time to support themselves or a family. As JWU Online, we recognize and renew our commitment to meeting the same high standards that have built the reputation of Johnson & Wales University.

Dr. David Cartwright, Dean of JWU Online, shared, “This name change marks a significant milestone in JWU’s history, reflecting our growth, values, and vision for the future. As JWU Online, our strategy remains focused on expanding academic excellence while further enhancing the student experience through digital engagement. We look forward to the opportunities this brings for our students, faculty, and partners in the online space.”

Chef Daniel Thomas '24
B.S. – Food & Beverage Entrepreneurship

Celebrity Chef Daniel shares his experience in JWU’s online Food & Beverage Entrepreneurship bachelor’s degree program and how it supports his mission to help change people’s lives.

“I measure my success in how many people I’m able to help have a healthier lifestyle - and on the way to the top, making sure that I am also sending the elevator back down to lift other small business owners up.”
